Ben Delzell Tries Spirit Photog raphy at His Home.

HIS WIFE IS A MEDIUM.

While Mrs. Delzell Summoned the Spir its Twe Expert Photographers Took Their Pictures.

A novel experiment with spook photography was made Thursday evening at the home of Hen W. Delzell of the firm of G. W. Locke & Co., real estate dealers. Mr. Delzell resides with his wife and family at Eliendale, a suburban station on the Missouri Pacific Railroad.

About three years are the and Mrs. Del.

About three years ago he and Mrs. Dei-all became converted to spiritualism and ecently he conceived the idea that matefalisation of spirits might be demonstrated y photographing the spirits as they ap-eared in obedience to the summons of the sedium.

An accident suggested this plan to Mr. Delzell. A few months ago a friend of his, an amateur photographer, took some views of the house. When the plates were developed it was found, according to Mr. Delzell, that the camera had captured the likeness of a spirit as it hovered about one of the windows. None of them could account for this phenomena in any other way. This photograph was taken in broad daylight. Other experiments were made, but without success.

Other experiments were made, but without success.

But Mr. Delzel was not discouraged. He related the incident to other spiritualists, who confirmed his impression of the importance of the discovery, and urged him to repeat his experiments under the most favorable circumstances obtainable.

Accordingly he secured the assistance of John A. Hazenstab and Charles D. Wilson, experienced photographers. To them he related the incident mentioned, and requested them to try their hands at photographing spirits. Both men were incredulous, but consented to make the experiment.

Messrs. Hazenstab and Wilson, taking with them a powerful camera and a number of the best plates they could secure, visited Mr. Deizell at Ellendale Thursday evening. The experiment was made in a small bed room in the presence of the two photographers, Mr. and Mrs. Deizell and several other members of the family. Mrs. Deizell acted as medium.

small bed room in the presence of the two photographers. Mr. and Mrs. Delzell and several other members of the family. Mrs. Delsell acted as medium.

A black background was prepared for the etheresi subject by hanging a black cloth on the wall. In front of this cloth firs. Delsell scated benself, robed in white facing the causes. At this stage of the experiment light was let into the room. When Mrs. Delsell had posed the camera was arranged so as to take a bust picture of her. All the parties in the room accept the medium ranged themselves behind the camera. Intense silence was maintained so as not to disturb the working of the medium or frighten the spirits.

When all was ready the plate was exposed by Mr. Hazenstab, Mr. Wilson in the meanime keeping a sharp eye as to what might transpire. When Mrs. Delxell had been photographed the plate was again covered and the room darkened by placing heavy black paper over the windows. A little light crept into the room through crevices. The medium was barely discernible. Then the plate was again exposed and left so for fifteen minutes. Not a word was spoken.

Mr. Delzell's theory was that at the medium's summons the spirits would hover about her head and be reproduced by the camera. The black background was furnished on the theory that the spirits must

A Post-Dispatch reporter saw Mr. Hazenstab at his residence, 432 Virginia avenue, shortly after he returned from Ellendale and asked his opinion as to the success or failure of the experiment.

"Wall, I'm no spirituanst." he said, "but if when I develog that plate it shows anything beside airs. Delsell I confess I will be unable to account for it. During the experiment and while we were making the preparations, both Mr. Wilson and myself twatched everything very closely to see if they put up a job on us. I saw nothing to arouse my suspicions. The room was an ordinary bed-room. There was no mirror in the youn. During the experiment I watched Mr. Delsell closely, but he simply sat still."

"Did you see anything?"

"At one time I thought I caught a glimpse of semething white just above Mrs. Delsell's head, but if did not remain long—not long enough for the plate to catch it. I expect to find nothing but Mrs. Dalsell's picture when I develop the plate. Of course if I wanted to play upon the credulity of spiritualists. I could easily put a figure there in such a way that they could not detect the fraud. Any photographer knows how to do that. But it would be dishonorable. I intend to put nothing on that plate, and it will show just what appeared before it."

These contests have been growing in interest for some time past. In consequence the kites have kept growing in size. Mr. Barber appeared with one measuring nearly eight feet from top to bottom, and, with the assistance of a couple of friends he proceeded to fly it. After the kite was well in the air Barber fastened the rope by which it was held around his body. No sooner had he done this than the friends who were aiding him let go the cord. Mr. Barber was dragged along the ground for some rods and then lifted bodily into the air. His friends tried to rescue him, but they could not reach him. The kite pulled him into the air over fifteen feet and then the wind seemed to die away. Barber and the kite began to sink, and in a few minutes he was dropped into the river. Tied as he was to the kite, Barber could not sink, and in a short time he was rescued by a man with a boat, who brought him to shore after cutting the rope which held the kite. The kite fell on the Wisconsin side of the river, where it was picked up hy a small boy.

THE SYNDICATE'S PLAN:

Small Premium Paid for Gold Outside Treasury Sources.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—The Herald says: The most important fact that has developed in connection with the financial condition

The most important fact that has developed in connection with the financial condition is that a small premium is being paid for gold obtained from sources outside the SubTreasury. An inquiry revealed the fact that very little of this gold is shipped to Europe, inasmuch as the remitters could withdraw the necessary gold coin from the Sub-Treasury without paying premium.

So far as can be learned the premium is chiefly paid for assay office bars and for bars that come from private smelters in the West. The premium in many cases is paid for the assay office checks feven when the gold was deposited in the keeping of the Government. This amounts to the same thing as taking the gold itself.

It is a mere conjecture how many, if any, are paying a premium for gold, but the fact is known that the bond syndicate on Tuesday last deposited at the assay office the king of the fact is known that the bond syndicate on Tuesday last deposited at the assay office to be fact is known that the syndicate so onting its accumulation of gold, which is supposed to have been going on for some time, but the extent of which has been carefully concealed.

Of course all this does not indicate that special efforts are made to keep it secret that and premiums are paid, if such is really the case, seems to indicate that the syndicate has an object in keeping its plan quiet. If it were known that it were true that the syndicate has set out to accumulate a large amount of bullion for the purpose of protecting the Treasury reserve of for any other purpose its plans might be hindered in one way or another.

Duestrow's Attorney Has Trouble With His Two Leading Experts.

THEIR REPUTATIONS HURT.

Closing Arguments in the Celebrated Case and the Probabilities of a Verdict

Special to The Post-Dispatch.
UNION, Mo., Aug. 18.—So far one finality has been accomplished in the Duestrow trial, although it is not finished. Drs. Bremer and Bauduy have made their final bow and are out of the case, no matter what may happen in the future, no matter whether Duestrow be convicted or not. Dr. Bauduy so an-nounced himself yesterday before taking his departure from Union and stated that he

WITH JOHNSON.

With this announcement came the revelation that all is not well between Gov. Johnson and his two leading experts. In truth the entente cordiale between them is addy strained. This is particularly true in Dr. Bauduy's case.

The cause of the difficulty is the shabby treatment the experts think they have received at the hands of Gov. Johnson. Dr. Bauduy claims that throughout the whole case the experts have been unable to get the ears of the attorneys; that as soon as their duty was done by Duestrow in their testimony then the attorneys cast them aside like squeezed lemons regardless of their record before the scientific world.

The climax in the slowly increasing ill feeling came Wednesday. In Dr. Bauduy's cross examination on his examination in chief, Attorney Marrivether had quoted from the doctor's book and apparently made him admit that he had changed his position in many respects.

Tuesday evening the doctor was put on in sur-rebuttal. He had discovered in the meantime that Attorney Meriwether had misquoted some of the portions of his book. He went to Gov. Johnson, so he says, and insisted on being allowed to bring this out in the direct examination. Gov. Johnson, would not hear of it. Dr. Bauduy tried to explain to him that his scientific reputation was at stake.

"Bother your reputation," he reports the Governor retorted: "you injure our client by

So it was finally agreed that the dostor should say nothing on his direct examination. He would go no further than this however, sod promised himself to bring it out in the cross-examination. But he found no opportunity to do so.

After his examination was all over he appealed to the court for an opportunity to set himself right. This was granted, and as he left the stand Gov. Johnson whispered peremptorily in his ear, "You shall not bring that out, but the doctor insisted, and Attorney Meriwether meeting him half way they had a very agreeable time of it. Since then Dr. Bauduy has been at white heat and has been backed up more or less by his colleagues.

"I have worked for fifteen months on this case with all my heart and I thought I deserved some recognition from the attorneys in the case. This trial will all be written up from a medical standpoint, and I want to be set right before the scientific world. All I have is my reputation. I do not propose to have it ruined because the lawyers fear I may prejudice their client. Dr. Bremer and I are out of the case for good, come what may. Hereafter when Gov. Johnson wants experts, let him go to Chicago and

The question of the verdict is naturally an all absorbing one just now. The general impression seems to prevail that the trial will result in a hung jury. It is said that from the way the jury felt last night the vote would stand 10 to 2 for conviction. This may be mere surmise, although it is said to come from an authoritative leak—that is, as authoritative as leaks of this sort ever are.

The Coroner Had Not Sufficient Evidence to Warrant Holding Him.

Broker Thomas R. Howard, who was arrested on suspicion of being implicated in the death of Mrs. Nancy Leathe, sister of his colored mistress, Priscilla Henry, was released Friday morning by order of BARSTOW, Fla., Aug. 16.—Bhjah Bagley opened fire and Stampare shot and killed him. was released Friday morning by order of Coroner Wait.

The examination of the viscers and bowels of the dead woman and the analysis of the medicine failed to show the presence of poison, and the Coroner is not in possession of sufficient evidence to warrant holding the prisoner. Howard is under bond on another charge, and if later developments warrant it he can be re-arrested.

The police have found another important witness against Howard in Marie Thomas, colored, 25 years old, who was an inmate of Priscilla Henry's resort at the time the Leathe woman died. She was located Priday by Detective Thomas McGrath at 15 South Eighth street. The detective took her before Coroner Wait, to whom she made the following statement:

"I boarded in Priscilla Henry's house for about three months and left there about a week after Nancy Leathe died.
"On the day before she died I heard Mr. Howard tell Priscilla and Mrs. Leathe's daughters not to give the sick woman any more of Dr. Friedman's medicine, saying the stuff was no good. I saw him that day take a bottle from his pocket containing a black fluid and give Aunt Nancy a dose of it. Immediately afterward her body and limbs began to jerk and twitch, and she kept it up all that day and night. After giving her the dose Mr. Howard put the bottle under her apron and took it to the kitchen. Mrs. Leathe died early the next morning."

The Thomas woman also stated that last Morales Howard busted by the state and a stated that last SEYMOUR, Ind., Aug. 16.—By a scaffold failing on the Strauss block on Chestnut street Architect Joseph Balsey was probably faisally and John Humes, contractor, Harry Barkmen and Andy Heyob, workmen, severely injured.

The Thomas woman also stated that last Monday Howard hunted her up and asked her, in case she was questioned by the police, to deny that she ever lived in Priscilla Henry's house or had an acquaintance with any of the inmates.

Howard, Florence Williams, Priscilla Henry's colored cook, and John Horton, all charged with attempted forgery and conspiracy to obtain possession of $55,000 worth of Priscilla Henry's real estate, were arraigned in the Court of Criminal Correction Friday morning. Attorney Estep, for the defendants, secured a continuance in the case until Aug. 50, in order to allow the police to fully investigate the alleged polsoning of Nancy Leathe.

Howard sat quietly in the cake while awaiting his case. He was neatly dressed and assumed an air of disgust at being thrown into contact with his less tidy fellow prisoners.

Symons of Winfield, who sent it to him, thus describes the peculiar snow storm: "Last Sunday it clouded up and the clouds had a pink cast to them. About 5 o'clock the clouds up the north became very dense and a dark pink, and at 6 o'clock it was too dark to read. I have seen many strange skies here, but that was the most strange. It began to snow about 8 o'clock, and in the morning there were one and a half inches altogether; a half-inch of the bottom was very pink, and when the snow thawed it left a coat of slime on the ground and boards, and our walk is pink even to-day." The powder is believed to be of volcanic origin.

Prof. Soldan, when asked whether he would accept the permanent appointment of the was to be subject to instant dismissal as Mr. Long was, answered;

"I should not desire to fill the position unless a reasonable tenure of office can be secured. A person entering the Superintendent's office should be able to give his thoughts to the work of the public schools and not be compelled to think of his position and its uncertainty. I would not like to take any office unless, the tenure depended on services performed for the people and not on the friendship or enmity of the persons."

pended on services performed for the people and not on the friendship or enmity of other persons."

Prof. Soldan said he had given no thought to a possible change in the rule fixing the Euperintendent's tenure, as that is a subject for the board alone to consider. He denied that he ever discussed such a change. The spirit of sympathy for Mr. Long has been changed by some persons to one of criticism of Mr. Soldan. The fact that he was not born in the United States, that he is said to be an agnostic, and that he is believed not to be a registered voter are raised against him. His friends resent these charges as being founded on prejudice. Chairman Dieckman of the Teachers Committee says he does not know what Mr. Soldan's religion is and he does not care. He believes that refigious distinctions have no place in the schools. He is equally indifferent to the new Superintendent's status as a voting citizen, and points to Mr. Soldan's more than national reputation as an educator as a guarantee that in two years the change will be universally approved.

When asked whether there were any complaints against Mr. Long not yet made public, President Brockman gave negative answers and said that as the matter is disposed of they want to drop the controversy, Mr. Brockman insists that he will not oppose Mr. Long is he is recommended for a principalship. This feature of the case rests with Mr. Long and the Teachers Committee.

Annie Lovell Wanted to Take Her Sara-toga to the Four Courts.

Annie Lovell's resort at 714 Clark avenue run under the guise of a cigar store, came near being the scene of a sensational rob-bery about 1 o'clock this morning. Shortly after midnight there was a fight in the place and the police raided it, arresting Annie and all her inmates. She begged piteously to be allowed to take her trunk to the Four be allowed to take her trunk to the Four Courts. The officers thought it was a crasy whim, but the reason developed later. An hour after the raid Officer Madden caught two men trying to climb into the place through the transom of a back door. The men gave their names as Thomas Malty and Edward Murphy. As the men were being locked up the Lovell woman was being released on bond. Hearing that her house had been entered she rushed frantically to the place and made at once for her trunk. She pulled out a towel wrapped around a roll of greenbacks as big as a City Directory. In another towel she had a few handfuls of jewelry. The police say there was $2,000 in greenbacks and the jewels were worth as much more.

and partook more of the nature of a soldiers' reunion than it did of a political powwow.

There were no prominent speakers present and no special attractions were offered, but by dark the followers of "de ole man" began to come in from every direction. They seemed to fairly ooze out of the darkness, and by $3.15 the entire space under the grand stand was filled to overflowing.

Before the meeting was called to order a sort of axperience meeting was held, during which the fellows who didn't get jobs under the Walbridge administration tried to talk about something else when the fellows who were more fortunate were around. Those who were barred out at the ple counter last spring wers in the majority and they talked it all over among themselves. Among the maleontents were to be seen not a few who are holding office under Walbridge by the grace of Filley, and they flocked with those who failed of recognition.

In addition to the office holders and those who wanted to flod office there were a goodly number of the rank and file of the party who always swing into line and shout and vote for the party nominees. Taken all in all, the meeting may be said to have been anti-Walbridge in its complexion, but not a ripple appeared on the surface to disturb the harmony of things in ganeral lafter the meeting was called to order. However, it may be taken as one of the straws which show which way the wind is blowing.

There was a whole lot of talk about the appointment of a Democrat to a place on the Fire Department by Chief Charles E. Swingley, but no open kicking was done. When the ward bosses remonstrated with Swingley he was able to square himself by ahowing an endorsement of the fortunate Democrat by Charley Joy. Congressman from the Eleventh District. It was evident that what Congressman Joy says goes, and while murmurs were heard there was no been takeng.

TO PREVENT EXPULSION.

Nat Eaton and James Hines Will En-join Carpenters' Union No. 4.

Attorney John B. Dempsey will ask Judge Dillon Saturday morning to restrain Carpenters' Union No. 4, from expelling Nat Exton and James Hines. Fred Swayne, President of the union; A. L. Rutledge. Secretary, and Robert Young, Trustee, will be defendants in the suit. An entertainment given by No. 4 at Walhalla Hall last fall caused the trouble. Eaton was Secretary of the union and Hines a member of the committee in charge. Some persons thought that beer and sandwiches were out of place at the entertainment and they arraigned Eaton and Hines before the Carpenters' District Council, a delegated body made up of representatives from the local unions. Eaton and Hines pleaded that they could be tried by their union only and that the council had no jurisdiction.

They appealed to the General Executive Board with headquarters at Philadelphia. The decision made Aug. 2 was that the District Council- had no jurisdiction, but because they did not deny the charges or make a defense they should, be expelled by Union No. 4 on or before next Monday night, Aug. 19.

Streets Must Be Kept Free From Rubbish at All Times.

Merchants who sweep trash into the guters, streets and alleys must pay the pen-alty. Mayor Walbridge and Street Com-missioner Milner are pledged to remit no fines.

The Commercial Club, Mercantile Club, Business Men's League and Merchants' Exchange took up the matter recently. The prohibitory ordinance was circulated extensively in printed form. Then committees of these four bodies called on the Mayor and Chief of Police Harrigan. The Chief promised to make the arrests and the Mayor promised to not interfere by remitting the fines.

sed to make the arrests and the Mayor promised to not interfere by remitting the sines.

Then the Street Department took a hand, and forty or fifty offenders were prosecuted. Several were fined, among them members of the agitating organization. Thursday several, including members of the firm of May, Stern & Co., and the Murphy Varnish Co., asked Mr. Milner to have their fines remitted. They were referred to the Mayor. Mayor Walbridge says none have been to see him, but his policy will be to refer them back to the Commissioner. If the latter recommends a remit it will be given, not otherwise. He will abide by his pledge to the mercastile bodies.

Mr. Milner, asked what his policy would be, said: "They will have to pay the fines. I pledged my word to not interfere and I won't. I have made but one exception, a poor, ignorant Polander, who could hardly speak English, and did not know he was violating any ordinance. The others know better. I will positively make no recommendations to have fines remitted. The inspectors have instructions to keep right along arresting all those violating the ordinance."

JUST TO BE SOCIABLE. John Shelby Joined in a Fight Carving John Thomas.

There was a colored church festival, pic-nic and free fight back of old Sportsman's

Park last night. John Thomas of 437 Lexington avenue was stabbed under the right shoulder blade. The lung was penetrated and the man will probably die, as there was considerable internal hemorrhage. John Shelby did the cutting.

Thomas says the trouble was all about 15 cents, which he borrowed from a man named Joe Duffy two months ago. They met at the festal board and Joe lost no time in asking for his money. Thomas was not prepared to liquidate at sight, and Joe hit him in the mouth for his delinquency. Then Shelby began to carve him. S'elby was not interested in the financial tr assction, but he joined in the fight just the sociable.

The wounded man was forwarded to the hospital.

The story is denied by the Lindell Rafiway people, but it is not improbable that in the near future police officers will be denied free rides on every street rallway in St. Louis. HEMAN SIGNED A CONTRACT statements that the Hill-O'Meara company had paid Heman, Claus Vieths and the Penny & Meyers Construction Co. various sums aggregating $1,500 conditioned on their mot opposing the company in its bid on the Chain of Rocks Railway.

Why the Hill-O'Meara Co. Paid Him $1,000 for His Derrick.

"Really, there is nothing I care to say about it." said Mr. Hill. These men are not after me. They are after someone else; I won't say who, and think they can get at him this way. When they find they have taken the wrong tack they will try some other plan.

"Now in regard to Heman: When we got the contract for the two settling basins, Heman had the contract for the other four. The only available river landing was at the end of his work. There is a landing beyond the Wiggins Ferry landing. Heman had a track from his landing to his work, and he had two derricks there. The Wiggins Ferry has a track running from this landing. To reach a landing beyond them we would have had to build a track costing at least $2,000. We approached Heman and he wanted at first $5,000 for the privilege, I shamed him for his extortion until he agreed to sell us one derrick and the use of the landing for $1,000. We entered into a written agreement. If you would like to see it I expect our book-keeper can find it."

The document was found and reads as

The Heman Construction Co. also grants to the Hill-O'Meara Construction Co. the privilege of same so as not to obstruct or interfere with each other, for the unloading of stone, cament, and or any other material used in their line, and to have equal rights in said landing.

(Signed) HEMAN CONSTRUCTION CO., By J. B. O'Meara, Secretary and Treasurer.

"Now," continued Mr. Hill, "that is all there is to it. It was a plain business agreement. Mr. Heman has placed himself in a bad light. Either he stamps himself as a liar when he signed that agreement, or as a scoundred by his testimony before the committee.

"As to Claus Vieths I don't know what to make of him. I paid him no money and had no agreement with him."

Rumors emanating from Louisville, Ky., say that Jan. H. Mulligan of Lexington, now United States Consul to Samoa, will be now United States Consul to Samoa, will be transferred in the fall to the post of Consul-General to Vienna in place of Max Judd of St. Louis. The rumor is unauthenticated, but is boistared up by statements that Mr. Judd, though a man of excellent abilities, is personally distasteful to the Viennese. It is said that Mr. Judd has been unable to break the social ice in the exclusive Austrian capital, but just what connection this has with his official duties is not made clear by Mr. Mulligan's friends.

Mr. Judd's brother-in-law, Bennett Wasserman of this city, says that he is in almost daily communication with Mr. Judd and no dissatisfaction with Mr. Judd and no dissatisfaction with his consular work has even been expressed. Mr. N. Friedman, who bought out Mr. Judd's business, said: "This is like the talk that filled the papers when Mr. Judd was appointed. It was said that the Viennese would not receive him. My brother was in Washington and Secretary Gresham said that not a word of what was in the papers had reached the Shite Department from Vienna."

Mr. Judd's friends regard the rumor as an effort of Mr. Mulligan's friends to push him along. The Vienna Consulate pays 33,600, while the Samoan Consulate pays 33,600.

WARNING TO THE TURK.

The first echo of Mr. Gladstone's recent speech on the Armenian question is to be found in the speech of Premier Salisbury at the opening of Parliament yesterday. This portion of his speech was full of cance and warning. It was far more frank and explicit than ministeria speeches usually are, especially when they deal with foreign affairs.

In language which cannot be mistaken the Ottoman Porte is warned that "the permanence of the Sultan's rule is inolved in the conduct he pursues," and that if the cries of misery coming from Armenia are ignored, "Europe will beome weary of appeals, and the fictitious strength which the Powers have given the Empire will fail it." He concludes with the statement that "the Sultan will make a calamitous mistake if he refuses to accept the advice of the European powers" regarding reforms in Armenia. Words cannot go farther than this Coming from the premier of a new government which has just come into power with an overwhelming majority behind it, they can only mean that the demand for justice to Armenia will be backed up if necessary by a British fleet in the Bosphorus. They are words of a kind that have been used too seldom in deal-ing with the chronic Eastern Question. The Sultan knows now that he must yield or fight. And he knows that Lord Sallsbury does not exaggerate when he says that a fight would mean the end of Turk-sh rule in Europe. THE LAW VINDICATED.

In the ordinary course of such cases it was to be expected that the influence of these men, their families and friends would tell on the prosecution; that it would prevent their indictment, or, if in dicted, would delay and perhaps defeat their conviction. It was to be expected that it would greatly mitigate their punishment.

But none of these expected results hap-pened. The indictment and arraignment were so swift and the preparations for prosecution so vigorous that the guilty men hastened to accept a life sentence strengthened the safeguards around hu man life in Mississippi.

PROSE THE CONTRACT SCANDAL.

Attacking the motive of the member of the House of Delegates who are investigating the Waterworks contracts will not impair the value of the facts brought to light nor offer valid ground for the avoidance of the duty that may arise in

It is a matter of no importance to the people of St. Louis whether the object of the investigation is to square accounts with other city officials, or with contors, or to expose crookedness with view to righting it, so long as crooked-ness is exposed. The honest motive would be preferable, but the dishonest motive will serve a good end if it calls attention to abuses and frauds in city contracts.

But having begun the investigation the House cannot stop it until all possi-ble information is obtained. Either too much or too little has been told by the contractors who have spoken about the Hills-O'Mears contract. They de their willingness to give all the informa mittee. They should be given full opportunity. The scandal should be probed to the bottom.

If there is a contractors' ring of which the city is the victim it must be broken if every firm in the combine is stricken from the list of bidders for city contracts. The city had better do its own work than

The avowed purpose of these "reformers" is to counteract the 18 to 1 free coinage sentiment that it is asserted is "injuring the credit of our nation and driving away capital." WALKER WAS MURDERED. Struck on the Head and Thrown Into the Detroit River.

According to the latest dispatches fro Detroit, a post-mortem held on the remains of Bookmaker Fred Walker, whose body was found floating in the Detroit River, developed the fact that Walker was killed developed the fact that Walker was killed by a blow on the head with a blunt instrument and the body then thrown into the water. At first it was thought Walker had committed suicide in a fit of despondency, the result of his recent bad luck at the Windsor races. The murdered man's full name was Alfred Frederick Walker, and his home was Gueiph. Ont. Walker was first heard of in racing circles around Chicago, when he was in the employ of Curt Gun, and made one of the biggest books on the Western circuit. Later on he drifted to New Orleans, and since he has made books on all the principal tracks of the country. He was last employed by Leo Mayer, who was on the block at the Fair Grounds during the early part of the present meeting. Dan Honig and other St. Louis horsemen knew the deceased well.

Col. John D. Hopkins, Dan Creedon's backer, came down from Chicago yesterday to back his horse Dago in the last race at the Fair Grounds. The Colonel neglected to get down on Dago when he won at 15 to 1 at the Fair Grounds last Saturday, but he made up for it to a certain extent yesterday. Hopkins bet $500 on Dago, getting his money on at an average price of $ to 5. Handicapper Billy Sullivan and the Colonel are great friends. Sullivan figured Minnie Cee to win, but Hopkins said Dago would run away from her, which is exactly what he did do. The Colonel reports his pugilistic protege Creedon to be getting along nicely at Jim Robinson's Roby resort. Creenicely at Jim Robinson's Roby resort. Vice-President H. J. Crooker of the Pacific Coast Jockey Club has just signed contracts aggregating $55,000 for the construction of the new race track at San Francisco. It is expected that the new track will be ready for racing by November. This is the track in which Barney Bchreiber, Joe and Alex Ulliman and Ed Corrigan are interested in. It will be run in opposition to Tom Williams' Bay District track meeting.

Seven received notices of transfer to Class B and three notices of one year's suspension.

Those under the ban are as follows: Permanently suspended—C. J. Neuman, J. H. Little, J. R. Fleming and James Burger. Suspended for one year—F. Derby, F. Ambrose and Fred Goodall. All of these are also transferred to Class B for competing with J. H. Little, who is a Class B man.

The cause of the missives received from the Chairman of the Racing Board is the meet given at Washington, Mo., last Sunday under the auspices of the National Cycling Club, an offshoot of the Victor Cycling Club.

This makes eight outlaw riders in St. Louis and includes besides the above Jos. Laux, J. F. Barsaloux, G. E. Stork and W. W. Gardner.

In addition to the suspensions Chairman Gideon has written the local member of the Racing Board that he has addressed another letter to the National Cycle Board of Trade, asking its co-operation in influencing all dealers who are connected with the outlaw meet to refrain from further support of such affairs.

Campbell Expects to Reach the Metropolis in Thirty Days.

He Walked Here From New Orleans and Is Confident He Can Average Over Thirty Miles a Day.

On Sunday hight Elmora Campbell, a pro-fessional long-distance pedestrian, will leave this city to walk to New York against time. The distance is about 1650 miles, and Campbell expects to reach the metropolis in thirty days or less. In order to do this he will have to walk thirty-five miles a

If he succeeds in beating the best time between St. Louis and the metropolis, Campbell says he is confident of getting a match with some of the champions. He will go by way of Terre Haute, Indianapolis, Columbus, Pittsburg and Philadelphia and calculates to reach New York by Sept. 18 at the latest.

The nervy little pedestrian only recently arrived from New Orleans, having walked all the way to beat a record. From the Crescent City he headed for Alexandria, 196 miles distant, arriving there about noon of the sixth day. He then made a bee line for Little Rock, 200 miles away, and on the morning of the tanth day he stroiled into the Arkansas capital. St. Louis was his desination, and he set a rapid pace at the start, which he kept up till the tall tower of the Union Station loamed up before his gare.

He had left 286 miles behind him on the last toird of his trip and broken all records from Little Rock and New Orleans. United States Minister to Peru, at Lima. A stop was also made at Panama, and upon arrival at Callao the young sallor deserted. He was now a deserter from both the army and the navy, and he knew that capture meant death or imprisonment under treatment to which he would have preferred death. He loafed around the town and endeavored to conceal his identity, but a reward of $30 induced some one to turn him over to the Captain of the Alaska and he was taken back in irons.

Chili and Peru were at war then, and the Alaska kept cruising up and down the coast. At the expiration of ten days Campbell was relieved of his chains, and pressed into service as a messenger on the vessel. When a landing was made off Valparaiso the sallors were given leave to go ashore, and Campbell slipped into a boat with a party of them and made his escape. He got a job in a saloon, and at the earliest opportuity joined the Chilian navy, shipping aboard the Waska. This was in 1850, six years after he first left home to join the army.

One day while the Waska was cruising along the coast she ran alongside the Alaska, from which Campbell had deserted, and for several hours while the captains were having a friendly confab he was in mortal terror of being discovered. On May 4 the Waska encountered the Peruvian sun boat Esmeralda, and gave battle. It was a fierce fight, and resulted in the blowing up and sinking of the Esmeralda with her crew of 300 officers and men.

up and sinking of the Esmeralda with her crew of 500 officers and men.

His old longing came for change of scene again came over Campbell, and one day when the men were given general leave to go ashore he and three others, a Scot, a Portuguese, and a Frenchman, deserted. They were on the coast of Peru, the enemies' country, fifty miles from any town, in what was almost an unbroken wilderness. For four days they were without food or water, and the Portuguese and the Frenchman left Campbell and the Scot to take what they believed to be the road to the town. The latter two brought up at a deserted village and found water. The following day the reached Molliendo, where they found their two companions under arrest. They too, were cast into prison en suspicion of being Chilian spies, and sent to the Arequipa, 200 miles inland, where they were told they would be shot a daybreak.

That night, through the German Consul, Campbell succeeded in sending word to Mr. Baker, the English Consul, that all four of the prisoners had been "shanghated" (forced) into the Chilian Navy and that they were Europeans not unfriendly to Peru. Mr. Baker interceded for them, and at the hour set for their execution they were released. Campbell was kept under surveillance and not allowed to leave the town. He got a place as "maridama" (steward) in a hotel, where he worked for two months before an opportunity to escape presented. He succeeded in making his way to the coast at the risk of his life. He was captured and taken back to Arequipa and again placed under surveillance, but his ever watchful eye and unbounded courage soon enabled him to break away from his capture.

in an agony of suspense for fear the Commandante would discover that he was a deserter from the Chillan navy.

He shipped on the steamer Pisagua and went to Lenora where he worked in the nitrate works for awhile, but eventually got a chance to return to Callao, where he joined the crew of the English ship Hazel Holmes, merchant vessel bound for heme. He was discharged at Liverpool in the summor of 1883 and walked from there to Manchester. There he jumped his contract and deserted the ship, finding employment as a sheepherder on the pumpes. Tiring of that in a few weeks, he folned the American merchantman Etta White, Captain Matthews, and sailed for Boston, whence he hastened back to his old home in New York.

He had been gone twelve years, but his homesickness was soon relieved and he started South. At Memphis a German sargeant recognized him as a deserter from the United States regulars and he was arrested and sent to this city, being imprisoned in the gould be forwarded to Little Rock. This was in 1891. There the colonel in command looked up his record and sent the information on to the War Department at Washington. This total includes the 55,000 soldiers to be dispatched from Spain between Aug. 13 and Sept. 5 on fourteen steamships of the Spanish Transatiantic Lipe, chartered for that purpose. When those reinforcements arrive there will be 76,372 regulars and 85,000 volunteers. The regulars are classified as follows: 59,000 infantry, 3,878 cavalry, 1,853 artillery, 1,415 sengineers, 2,700 marine infantry, 358 military police, 4,400 civil guards, 1,152 guerillas.

A letter received from Gen. Antonio Macceo's camp says that when the insurgents surrounded Bayamo they had no intention of capturing the town; that they will not capture large towns, but will blow them up with dynamite bombs that Gen. Roloff's expedition is making.

Gen. Campo's sudden action in relieving his officers holding the most important commands in Eastern Cuba has astonished military and social circles, His reasons are unknown.

Gen. Salcedo left yesterday for Spain under the excuse of sickness. But it is said he will soon return. That he intends to make a clean breast at home of what is happening in Cuba there is no doubt.

Gen. Bazan, who was also relieved and will soon leave here for Spain, has likewise been granted two months leave of absence on account of sickness.

Gen. Lachambre was given the artillery command of Havana. It is said Gen. Campos did not dare to relieve him like the others on account of his influence at court. It is now rumored that Spain is going to try to-raise a counter revolution, setting the white leaders of the first revolution against the whites and blacks of the present

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—The ocean tug
Restless sailed from Mobile, Ala., Tuesday evening, with munitions of war for Cuba. This was not considered an "expedition"—simply a shipment of arms and ammunition. The war materials were purchased wholly by Southern contributions.

The Restless had no difficulty in making a safe departure from Mobile. She was chartered by three well-known Cubans, ostensibly to take a fishing party on a fishing trip in Southern waters. Outsiders never dreamed she was to have any connection with the revolution. The tug is to transfer her oargo of arms to a vessel she will meet in the Guif. Special to The Post-Dispatch.

An Incident of the First Day in the Commons.

LONDON, Aug. 16 .- An incident of the opening day of Parliament was the sus-

Secretary of State for the Colonies, moved that Dr. Tanner be suspended. A division was called for, but Dr. Tanner falled to find a teller, and the Speaker declared the motion carried.

Upon the Speaker declaring the motion carried Dr. Tanner shouted that he would withdraw if he were directed to do so from the Chair. Upon retiring he made a courtly bow, and exclatmed:

"I have greater pleasure in leaving than I ever had in entering this dirty House."

Then, pointing to the Treasury beach, he shouted: shouted:
"Judas." This was repeated four times.
Arrived at the door, he tried to turn back, but was prevented by the officials, his last words being:
"None of your nonsense on me,"
The House then adjourned.

WOMEN AS DISTILLERS. Two of Them in Georgia Have Been Granted Government Licenses. ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 16.-The "new woman" has broken out in another way in Georgia. This time she comes to the front Georgia. This time she comes to the front as a distiller. A woman in Jasper County and another in Cherokee have been granted the necessary Government license to enable them to establish registered distilleries from which to make peach brandy. These are the first cases of women distillers which appear on the books of the revenue department. There have been isolated cases of women who were alleged to own illicit distilleries, but those have been Spartan women, who took the blame on themselves, in the hope that the courts would be lenient with the owners.

M. E. CHURCH DIVISION.

Will Women Be Allowed to Take Part in the Conference?

Special to The Fest-Dispatch.

NEW YORK. Aug. 18.—"Is the Methodist Episcopal Church to be divided next year?" That is the question being asked by many Methodists throughout the United States. The question arises from the desire of the women to take part in the general conferences which are field once in four years, the next one convening in 1886.

For the most eight years a majority of the clergy and the laity have been clamoring for this change. It was supposed that the subject had been finally settled in the negative at the general conference of 1893, but it bebbed up again. The Rev. John W. Hamilton devised a clever plan to rout the conservatives on their own ground. He submitted an amendment to the constitution which declares that "women shall be excluded from admission to the general conferences as lay delegates." As three-fourths assent of the clergy will be necessary to carry this amendment and more than half the clergy are in tavor of the admission of women, this plausible proposition is therefore fully charged with dynamite for the opponents of the innovation. It has aroused a bitter controversy, and the conservatives are at a loss to off-set it. The expected rupture may come after the annual conferences are held throughout the country this fall and next spring. Several are to take place in this vicinity within a few weeks, and church members are displaying unwonted energy in behalf of their respective parties.

CLAIMED BY AN INDIAN.

CLAIMED BY AN INDIAN. Property in Argentine Which Belonged to Nancy White Feather.

to Nancy White Feather.

Special to The Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 16.—Attorney R. R. Dunbar of Argentine and George Washington, a Cherokee Indian of Vinita, O. T., this morning filed a plea in the Unite of States Circuit Court in Topeka to have a mortgage of $14,000 set aside on 168 acres in the Western part of Argentine, comprising a portion of Mulvane's Addition and adjoining land. The claim is made on the strength of an old Indian deed now in the possession of George Washington, a grandson of Nancy White Feather, member of the Shawnee tribe of Indians, to whom the land in question, according to Mr. Dunbar, was patented by the United States Government Dec. 28, 1858. Nancy White Feather was a widow. Her heirs have never signed the deed to the property, it is claimed, nor have they ever authorized anybody to deed the property to others for them. The Traders' National Bank of Boston and others have never signed the property, which was given, it is alleged, by other persons claiming to own the land. George Washington arrived here last evening from the Indian Territory. In case the Indian deed is recognized by the courts the suit will at once be brought to dispossess the present eccupants.

PHONOGRAPHIC FUNERAL. Peculiar Services Over the Remains of Baby Burr.

Special to The Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—The first funeral service ever conducted in which a phonograph took the place of a minister occurred last Saturday afternoon at the home of Abraham Stillywell, a Gravesend under-of Abraham Stillywell, a Gravesend undertaker.

The services were over the body of Gussie Burr, a 15-months-old child, who up to a short time before her death had been on exhibition at Coney Island museums as a "fat baby." The entire service of prayer, sermon and hymns was performed by the phonograph. The remains were buried in Gravesend cemetery. The undertaker is a strict Methodist and dislikes to bury a body without a religious service. He had trouble in always securing a preacher. A few weaks ago he heard a phonograph for the first 'une, and conceived the idea of purchas, one and having it loaded for a fune. He secured a preacher, who prayed into the machine and also preached a funeral sermon into it. Later several funeral hymns, were sung into the phonograph.

CONTRADICTS THE DOCTO

All Are Happy, Glad, and Well.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY PRANTILE]

The theories of physicians in regard to female complaints suffer a "Water-loo" very frequently, when sensible and thinking women take matters into their own hands.

Women are sometimes compelled to act for themselves, because of the suffering forced upon them by incompetent doctors, who are baffled by very simple complaints, because they are not the right sex to comprehend them.

Lydia E. Pinkham, when she gave to the world her Vegetable Compound, lifted women from the darkness into light. She placed within their reach a guaranty, not only of health, but of delicacy and self-respect.

The following letter is a little story where a "dear little boy" was the "Waterloo."

"I have taken three bottles of your Vegetable Compound, one package of Vegetable Compound, one package of Sanative Wash, one box of Liver Pills; and now I have a dear little babe four weeks old, and I am well. I am well. have to thank you for this.

"I have spent $200.00 for doctors' bills without a cure. For my cure I only spent $5.00.

"I was once a victim of female troubles form. I have sufform. I have suffered untold agonies every month; had to stay in bed, and have poultices applied, and then could not stand the pain.

"My physician told me if I became pregnant I would die. I had bladder trouble, itching, backache, catarrh of the stomach, hysteria, and heart trouble, fainting spells and leucorrhoea. Can you wonder that I sing the praises of a medicine that has cured me of all these fills?" Mrs. Geo. C. Kirchner, 351 Snediker Ave., Brooklyn, N.Y.

Langhorne of Richmond.
YORK, Aug. 16.—The annous made by wire of the engages ment is made by wire of the engagement of Mr. Charles Dana Gibson and Miss Irene Langhonre of Richmond, Va. Mr. Gibson is the well-known artist, whose cartoons in Life have made him a favorite with the American public, and whose "American Girl" is an artistic creation which has given America a national type of beautiful and glowing womanhood. Miss Langhorne is herself a famous beauty, but curiously enough nowise resembles the type which Mr. Gibson has made so famous. Miss Langhorne is of medium height, with dark hair, regular features, expressive eyes, and the fascinating manners of a woman who, although young, has been for years the belle of her native State, and used to receiving the homage of all the men of her acquaintance. When the naval vessels of the world gathered at Hämpton Roads in the spring of 1854 Miss Langhorne was the bright particular star of a beyy of ladies who charmed and dazzled the foreign officers.

Strange Freak of an Old Farmer Who Wheels His Wife in an Invalid Chair.

George A Meinberg, the salesman with J. Kennard & Sons Carpet Co., and Charles H. Schulse of the Lammert Furniture Co. H. Schulse of the Lammert Furniture Co. have a mutual complaint against the human race. They both say they don't mind being euchered out of valuable time or even money, provided it is done by a fellow who puts on the least pretensions to style. But when it comes to having a bon ton house hoodwinked by a sloppy old farmer, who pushes his wife on an invalid's chair-along the streets, it is unbearable. But they are in for it, and are taking their chagrin as herolcally as circumstances will allow.

they are in for it, and are taking their chagrin as heroically as circumstances will allow.

A few days ago Sidney J. Estey of Mount Vernon, Ill., walked into J. Kennard & Sons, and represented himself as being a very able man financially and wanted to buy some fine carpets. Being shown every courtesy, Mr. Estey went out and rolled in his wife on an invalid's chair, whom he said had been inj &cd ob their farm by a cyclone. After buying $500 worth of Brussels carpets they wanted to be recommended to a first-class furniture house, saying that after all purchases had been made they would return before banking hours were closed with the cash.

Polite Mr. Meinberg, out of the goodness of his heart, helped by his own strength to roll the invalid chair two blocks to the Lammert Furniture Co. The rich couple were taken in charge of by Salesman Schulze, who rolled the chair from floor to floor, in and out of elevators, and spent two long hours closing a $400 deal of fine furniture. Bestey gave orders that the goods be shipped to Mount Vernon, Ill., in care of Dr. Alvis E. Johnson.

"See, wife, I told you it would cost $1,000 to get fixed up," remarked Mr. Estey as he left for the Planters' to get dinner.

Estey never returned, leaving behind him two perplexed salesmen. Shultze wrote to Dr. Alvis E. Johnson of Mt. Vernon to know about Mr. Estey. This morning the reply came that the last infomation received from Estey was that he purposed going to New York, whether to visit the Vanderbilts could not be learned.

It developed that Estey recently married the woman whom he rolls in a chair, without visible meaps of support. He claims to be wealthy and said he gave a druggist a package in Mt. Vernon containing $6,000. He secured options on valuable property in that city, but so far it has not developed that execured options on valuable property in that city, but so far it has not developed that execured options on valuable property in that city, but so far it has not developed that execured options on valuable property in the Eleanora Grundman, aged 4, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. F. W. Grundman, was burned to death Thursday afternoon at her parents' home, 100 North Jefferson avenue. Her clothes took fire from matches with which she was playing and when she was discovered by her father and mother all her clothes but her skirt, shoes and stockings, had been burned and her body was a mass of blisters. Dr. Grundman dressed his child's injuries and summoned Drs. Richardson and Morgan, who redressed them. Three hours later Eleanora died in great agony.

Bankers Pleased With the Solid Demand for Money.

HEAVY FALL TRADE COMING.

Every Indication Points to the Best Season's Trade Experienced by This Section in Many Years.

St. Louis bankers, from the unusually heavy demand for money at good rates from the solid mercantile firms of the city and from the banks of the territory tributary to St. Louis, predict confidently a very large fall business.

The demand for money comes from men and firms who need it to lay in stocks preparatory to a trade which, from their reparatory to a trade which, from their reey to carry farmers during looking for money to carry farmers during the moving of the coming enormous corn crop and to accommodate cattle feeders who have preparing to handle increased numbers of cattle for the fall and winter market.

The demand in its entirety is of that character which not only presages but actually evidences a solid business boom, the like of which has not been seen in the Southwest in recent years. And, by the natural chain of business sequences, this money which is now flowing to first hands will again return through the channels of trade to add to the prosperity of St. Louis, the gateway of the great West.

Ordinarily July and August are dull months for bankers, but this year, they say, there has been no dull season. This speaks for itself. Another feature of the demand is that none of it is from the speculative element.

that none of it is from the speculative element.

C. W. Bullen, president of the National Bank of the Republic, said to a Post-Dispatch reporter: "Business is decidedly brighter than usual at this time of the year and the usual midsummer dullness has not shown itself at all. There is a good demand for money from the right sources. The merchants, in anticipation of increased values, have laid in larger stocks, and they have to be paid for. Then, too, the Southern banks will need considerable to carry their customers until the crops are harvested, and this creates additional business for St. Louis banks. The business of this bank is largely made up of the accounts of wholesale houses and, as a banker is to a certain extent the confessor of the merchant, we are in position to know what is going on. We find that the business in the dry goods, shoe and hat lines is heavier than ever and, judging from what they tell me, sales will aggregate more in those lines than in 1892, hitherto the banner year. The enormous corn crop that will be harvested guarantees a large business during the coming fail, winter and spring, and the outlook was never better."

President L. C. Nelson of the St. Louis National Bank said that the demand for money was never better at this season of the year. "I understand," said Mr. Nelson, "that some banks are already loaned up to their carrying capacity. We will have plenty to let out, but it will be at stiffer rates than those now charged. The money going out is to the mercantile classes for legitimate business and not for speculative purposes."

President G. A. Baker of the Continental National Bank said that his bank was experiencing an active demand for funds from local merchants. As an evidence of the marked improvement in business he cited the fact that customers who have not borrowed for a year are now wanting money. His bank, he said, was also having a large inquiry from country banks to meet the demands from farmers in carrying their grant of the Bank of Commerce, said that an active dem in St. Louis, taking that as an indication, was never better."

President Wm. Nichols of the Commercial Bank said that his bank was doing a fine business. There was a heavy demand for meney at 6 per cent, which indicated an excellent fall trade. The applications for loans were from business houses and not for speculative purposes. The usual sommer duliness in the banking business was entirely absent this summer.

R. R. Hutchinson of the Mechanics' Bank said: "The present demand for loans is very good, better than for some years, and as far as I can see the fall business of St. Louis will be excellent. All of our customers show a degree of confidence in the situation that is refreshing after the slex we have had to go through. We are having considerable inquiry from country banks for funds to supply the demand from sgriculturists and stock raisers."

President Walker Hill of the American

President Walker Hill of the American Exchange Bank said: "Business in general is good, and the demand for money normal considering the time of the year, with rates fair. In the East I notice that manufacturers of all kinds are starting up and that there has been an increase of wages in many lines. I think that our mercantile and agricultural interests, with good crops, will be in exceptionally good condition this fail."

will be in exceptionally good condition this fall."

President F. W. Biebinger of the Fourth National Bank said that his bank was experiencing: a fair inquiry for loans and felt that all indications pointed to a heavy demand this fall for St. Louis goods. All of his customers were expecting a heavy business and were preparing for it with heavy stocks. "I learn that some banks are aiready well loaned up" said Mr. Biebinger. "Crops promise well, particularly corn, and while they may bring slightly lower prices there will be enough money realized to justify the farmer in buying The banks of St. Louis will be found glad to loan money at reasonable rates to assist what we know to be the growth of St. Louis business."

TWELFTH STREET BRIDGE.

New Structure Badly Needed, but the City Has No Money to Build.

City Has No Money to Build.

The wrecking of a portion of the Tweifth Street Bridge Thursday by a Missouri Pacific engine has revived talk of the necessity for a new bridge at that point. That the necessity exists is not questioned, although definite action has been deferred through lack of funds. The bridge has again been propped up temporarily, and this patch-work method of keeping it in repair will probably be continued indefinitely. This state of affairs is irritating to Carl Gayler, City Bridge Superintendent, and he frequently exclaims against it, but without avail. In discussing the Tweifth Street Bridge with a Post-Dispatch reporter Friday, Mr. Gayler said:

"The city certainly needs a new bridge over Twelfth street. Although light traffic has decreased since the occupation of the new Union Station, the heavy traffic has been considerably augmented. This class of traffic requires a strong, substantial bridge. With the opening of the new City Hall travel over Twelfth street will undoubtedly increase. The old bridge is inadequate to meet present and future requirements. It should be torn down entirely and replaced with an entirely new structure. Of course there are obstacles in the way. One is lack of money. And then, if the plan of making the bridge the entire width of the street is carried out, property damages would have to be paid." "About $440,000. Appropriations could be remained to the course there are obstacles in the way of the street is carried out, property damages would have to be paid." "About $440,000. THE LACLEDE CO.'S CASE.

Counsellor Marshall Will Try to Have It Advanced.

Post-Dispatch reporter if the pendency of the suit of the Laclede Gas-Light Co. against the city, appealed to the Supreme against the city, appealed to the Supreme Court of the United States, would delay any plan the city might have to effect a settlement of the conduit question and force the wires underground, said: "it serves to cloud the matter to some extent. The city can go ahead with a conduit plan, but while a settlement of the Laclede's rights is pending the city cannot adopt any plan which would shut out the Laclede comis pending the city cannot adopt any prans which would shut out the Laclede company. "The Laclede company." "The Laclede company claims the right to lay conduits, but to sublet the right to lay conduits. I do not believe any court on earth would uphold such a privilege as that. My construction of its rights, if it has any, is that it cannot use and lease any street at the same time.

"As a matter of fact, the Laclede Gas-Light Co. exercises to-day its privilege of leasing to others. It has leased power privileges to the Laclede Power Co. The poles of the latter company have been erected without any permit from the city. The Laclede Gas-Light Co. has had no dealings with the city at all."

"When is it likely the case will be taken up by the Supreme Court?"

"I am going to try hard to have it advanced and taken up next October. The case could not come up on the regular docket before October, 1896, but when large interests are involved the court often consents to advance cases."

RILLY DESMOND'S COUSIN. Visit of the Counterpart of the Detective Chief.

Wm, M. Desmond, United States Marshal for the Northern District of Iowa, a cousin of Chief of Detectives Wm. Desmond of this city, is here on a visit. The resemblance between the two men is so close that one is frequently mistaken for the other. They is frequently mistaken for the other. They are about the same height, weight, and the clothes of one would exactly fit the other. He has been an officer for twenty-two years and is one of the shrewdest men in the service. He is a little older than Chief of Detectives Desmond, being 43 years of age. When only 21 years old he was appointed Deputy City Marshal of DeWitt, 10., and at the expiration of his term was twice elected marshal.

He was then appointed Deputy Sheriff of Clinton County and at the end of his term was elected Sheriff for three terms. Under Cleveland's first administration he was appointed United States Marshal for the Northern District of Iowa, and upon the second election of Cleveland he was again appointed to the same position. His headquarters are at Dubuque. He will remain here about a week the guest of his cousin.

SHE WAS IN A STATE OF MIND. Miss Fitzgerald Airs Her Opinions at the Four Courts.

Mrs. Fitzgerald, whose son, Dr. John Fitzgerald, was arrested on complaint of the Mellier Bros. Drug Co., appeared in the warrant office Thursday in an angry state of mind. "I want to see Mr. Johnson," she said. "He's the only sensible and son," she said. "He's the only sensible and civil man in the Four Courts."

Mr. Johnson heard her complaint.
"I want to get back the paper on which I signed my name for $500 bond," she said. "Clerk Wagemann has it and he refuses to give it up."
She was told that Mr. Wagemann had no authority to give her the bond, as it had to be kept, in the court-room as a matter of record.

Then she went on in another strain, but on the same subject, denouncing the Mellers.

on the same subject, denouncing the Meshers.

After unburdening herself Mrs. Fitzgerald stopped to give somebody else in the warrant office a chance to talk. Some one remarked that Divers had been lynched and the ire of Mrs. Fitzgerald was again aroused. "It's a shame to lynch that nigger and let Duestrow go free. If I had my way about that case I would lynch Duestrow, Gov. Johnson and every expert who testified for Duestrow."

Then she flounced out of the room before Col. Dick Johnson could explain that the Governor is his brother.

to sell to any one who deals with the Trust, though the jobber may freely purchase from any other source independent of the Trust.

During the conflict the small dealer and the trade generally will reap profits of which they have been robbed ever since the inauguration of the giant monopoly.

Members of the conference gave it out that they were going to fight the Trust as a matter of self-protection.

They claim that the American Tobacco Co., not satisfied with the monopoly of the cigarette and smoking tobacco trade, began a year ago to buy up plug factories in Louisville, Cincinnati and other Western cities with the purpose of controlling this important branch of the trade. They flooded the market with their goods, advertised them extensively and furnished plug tobacco to dealers at a loss, but recouped themselves through their monopoly of the cigaretie market. Liggett & Myers and the Drummonds, finding their territory invaded, decided to strike back, and, to reach the Trust in a vital spot, decided to enter the cigaretie field. Within sixty days, as has already been announced, both these companies will be operating gigantic cigarette factories.

This is not the only blow that will be almed at the trust. As was outlined in these columns a few days ago the Tobacco Workers' National Union, an organization affiliated with the Knights of Labor and the American Federation of Labor, will take a hand in the fight and by placing their union label on all tobacco manufactured in the St. Louis factories give the local product preference in labor circles over trust goods.

Then there is another move on in the East that has already hit the trust hard. The wholesale dealers of New England, tired of the dictatorial methods of the trust that no goods would be supplied houses that handled anti-trust goods. The Wholesale Grocers' Association of Indiana will probably follow suit and the anti-trust manufacturers have agents out now doing missionary work and trying to create a hostile feeling among both wholesalers and retailers a

An unknown negro knocked at the door of Farmer Buenger's dwelling, near Nameoki, Ill., Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Buenger responded and was met by a demand for money, supported by an ominous shotgun. She gave him her husband's savings, $590, and the robber fled toward the river. An alarm was given and a posse formed. Footprints were found on the river bank and it is believed the negro crossed to the Chain of Rocks on the Missouri shore. Farmer Buenger was in the field when the robbery occurred. The money was a year's savings.
